

Abstract

A method of treating cancer is provided comprising administering an amount of etodolac or analog thereof to a subject afflicted with leukemia that is effective to 5 reduce the viability and/or to sensitize leukemia cells to an anti-cancer agent.